

5: Socialization and Interaction

Socialization

Social Interaction

Basic concepts of interaction

The Normal Structure

Eruptions of Interaction

Unequal Interactions

Mediated Interactions

One key technology we have discovered, a means of materializing our culture, is through the mediation of interaction. That is, there we can have interactions with others, and ourselves, via a set of traces exchanged intentionally or not. These span everything from moves in games, to built structures, to writing, to digital interactions.

An interaction is mediated when some technology (e.g., writing or digital interaction) is the way that at least two people connect.